I am not sure what to write here. Please help me. #-#-#-#-#

If you're ever in need of a homework assignment, I could always use the help. If you need an introduction for this blog post, could you let me know? Thanks so much. #-#-#-#-#

I am very surprised that I have been getting a lot of comments on this post. Last time I posted something, it was a picture of the moon with a cool filter. It was probably one of the least interesting things I could have posted, but it still received about 100 comments from people asking what lens I used, etc. I guess that's what happens when you get a lot of attention on your first blog post. I don't think my last blog post got nearly as much traffic as this one has gotten, and my first blog post was pretty exciting because my girlfriend is beautiful and most people don't know what she looks like. Anyway, I promise that I will try to avoid being so boring in the future. I am not sure how long I will have to wait, because it's winter break for school right now so there is no homework. I am thinking about starting a new blog-a-day project where every day, for 100 days, you have to write something interesting on your blog. I'm not sure if I want to wait until the summer though. What do you think? I don't know man I've always wanted to learn how to play the guitar because one of my friends could teach me how, but then when I asked him about it he wouldn't even answer me. Maybe you shouldn't do that project because if you are bored in the summer then there are probably a lot of things that you can do, but if it's winter break then school is out already so there aren't really any good projects to work on. You should write a book about interesting things to do for your 100 days project. I have no idea how long it will take you to write a book. I mean, the thing is that the Bible only has 66 books so if you write 100 books then that would be almost twice as many and if there were 100 days worth of writing in a book then that would mean you could do one book every day and some change or something like that. How cool would it be to read one short book every day.

488eeb4e9f3299